If your pulse jolts hearing the rusty cackle of a turkey; if a fly made of "mallard quill thorax ribbed in gold wire ahead of a roughened white hare drubbing, no wing" is your holy grail; if you've felt caught on the barbed wire fence between your heritage and your destiny, Syd Lea's newest book, North Country Life: Tales of Woodsman ...

A North Country Life, Tales of Woodsmen, Waters, and Wildlife by Sydney Lea by Kevin Paulson | May 14, 2013 | Featured , Pro-Staff Blog Sydney Lea is now 70 years old and he has taken the time to pay tribute to the woodsmen and women who have been his guides, mentors and friends throughout his life in the outdoors.

Now nearing his 70th birthday, Vermont poet laureate Lea (A Hundred Himalayas: Essays on Life and Literature, 2012, etc.) meditates on the role of people and place in his life and pays tribute to the many woodsmen (and women) who were his guides and mentors.
