Texas requires that all adult day care facilities be licensed and overseen by the Texas Department of Aging and Disability Services (DADS). These facilities provide nutritious meals, opportunities for interaction with their peers, and additional safety.

Adult day services centers have grown markedly since the first centers, as we know them today, opened in the United States in the 1960s. Given the demographics, we can expect the demand to increase beyond the estimated 5,000+ centers already operating in the United States.

Because adult daycare services represent an important community need, both government and nonprofit organizations offer grants to assist with their creation.
