Through a paired comparison of two moments of mass mobilization, in Ukraine and Argentina, focusing on the role of different actors involved, this text maps out a multi-layered sequence of events leading up to mass mobilization.

This commonality comes from economic and political conditions, including social movements and revolutionary moments: in this sense, Argentina could be called the Ukraine of Latin America, while Ukraine can be labelled the Argentina of Eurasia. Commonality, ultimately, explains the excellence of the author's choice of countries for her analysis.
