Even in a small yard, San Francisco-based Bella Vita Garden Design expertly incorporated planting beds for golden barrel cactus, sculptures, and other succulents. A low wall permits views of the nearby mountains.

There is another important part of your garden and that is the garden fences. You should also pay attention on it and decorate it with interesting details.

When choosing a paint for a concrete patio, you should know that it is not as much the paint, as it is the painting process that determines how good the paint will look and how long it will last.

Before painting your patio, make sure that paint will adhere in the first place. All concrete is porous and absorbs moisture, but if your concrete patio contains too much moisture, you won't be able to paint it until you correct the moisture content.
